IM'S
COURTMAN

AGAIN

Principal's Message

The Senior School today is a far cry from the Grade 7 and 8 that most of your parents had opportunity to attend. Of course, the future facing young people today is much more complex than that which faced their elders. It is, therefore, necessary that we provide greater opportunities through expanded educational programmes such as schools offer today.

Yet, programmes, teaching or opportunities alone are not sufficient to guarantee the preparation you may wish for the future academically or socially.

The key to the future for every individual rests with the student. The manner in which you as an individual pursue these opportunities will determine how you will develop as a person. The subject matter one learns is valuable to know; but equally important is the manner in which your participation in school experiences develops you as an individual. Each task you do, each experience you take part in helps to develop the "future you."

Courtland offers you many opportunities to develop - in the classroom as well as in the many extra-curricular opportunities afforded you. The secondary school you will attend will do so also. Set your goals for the future and strive to reach them. You are the one who will ultimately determine how well you achieve this end.

In this my first year at Courtland, it is with sincerity that I say that I am highly impressed with the quality of our Courtland students today. Their attitude, outlook and their potential signals well for the future. May each and every one of you enjoy success in your future years.

Congratulations to the Yearbook Staff and to Mrs. Weber for the many hours of work given to make this yearbook a success.

Sincerely,

YEARBOOK STAFF

EDITOR'S MESSAGE

I feel this has been a good year for staff and students at Courtland. Both put forth a great deal of effort for the school. This was proven by our Senior Boys' Basketball Team who again took the title of Waterloo County Basketball Champions. We are proud of them as we are proud of our other teams whether they be winners or losers. Nothing really matters when we've got school spirit. Of course, the cheerleaders played an important part in cheering the teams on.

I would like to thank Mrs. Weber, my assistant editor Karen Hartwig, the Yearbook Staff, the teachers and the students for co-operating in making Flashback 1970-71 such a success.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

This year Courtland had another fine group of students to serve her. This fact was proven as we won the Waterloo County Basketball Championship again.

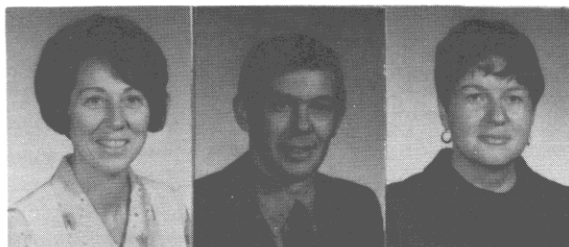

We had a good Students' Council and I think that with this group we had a lot of exciting activities this year. Our advisers, Miss Reid and Mr. Gatto, gave us a good backbone and all the help we needed.

Throughout this yearbook you will see all our student achievements and all the great forms of Courtland Senior Public School.

I hope that next year the students at Courtland keep up our school spirit. Thank you for making this year a good one for me as President.

Form 71 is big and strong
But we do all the things wrong,
All our students are full of hopes
Even though we have a few dopes.

We try our hardest
To get the farthest,
Teachers don't like us
And can not trust us.

So if we try our very best,
All the teachers won't think we're pests.
Hip, Hip, Hurrah for Form 71.

We're the greatest invention since the buggy and horse,
 Mrs. Gross is our coachman, of course.

As a team we are hard to beat,
 We sweep the other team clear off their feet.

As a class we are as clever as can be,
 And not at all conceited (as you can see).

For us the future looks cheery and bright,
 As through the year we work with all our might.

Seventy-three is the best,
 That's because we've got zest.
 Our teacher is a great swinger,
 But he's no singer.

In music we make quite a sound,
 And we're jolly all year 'round.
 In math we have balls,
 But we drive all the teachers up the walls.

Our 74 is the greatest,
 But all the teachers really hate us.
 We get detentions by the minute,
 Although we never ever quit it.
 There are some girls, there are some boys,
 When we're together we're the real McCoys.

FORM 75

Back Row - Bob Steeb, Mark Rose, Jack Vandyk, Hal Keller, Randy Thomas, John McLean, Harry Schmidt, Jeff Duncan, Don Pearcey

 Absent - Carla Heinrichs

Our form you know is seventy-five,
 And when we play games we sure take a dive,
 For down we go and never come up
 Unless we try and then we jump up.

Sometimes we're good and sometimes we're bad,
 But no one in the class is ever mad,
 For when we learn and work each day
 We're smiling and happy and everyone's gay.

76 - shout it out loud!
 We are pros of which we are proud.
 We won the sports award fair and square,
 Every person tried to be the best player.

76 - shout it again!
 To the teachers, it seems, we are a pain.
 Our marks are low, our hopes are high,
 We continually try to reach the sky.

76 - shout it once more!
 We always tried to get the top score.
 Mr. Gibson pushed us to victory,
 Now envious teachers give us misery.

"On the seventh day God created Heaven,
Mr. Walsh and 77."
We all come from 77
A riot each day,
The teacher is neat,
And he's very sweet.

The kids are funny
Each a comedy star.
You'll like them we know
However they are.

We don't look too well
Dressed in shorts,
But we think we're best
In inter-form sports.

We're known throughout classes
From tall down to short,
When we play our games
All the class will support.
All in all the class is neat,
So is the teacher who falls asleep.

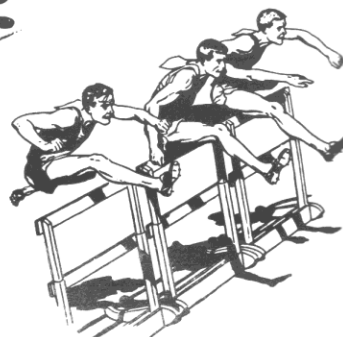

FORM 78

We are the youngest Special Eds,
 We have the smallest room.
 Our windows are so dark and dim,
 They bring us only gloom.

However, we do smile and laugh,
 We work and play real well,
 We always try and try our best,
 And teachers think we're swell.

FATE

It stole through the meadow,
With a sinister aim.
It stole through the shadow,
To make Johnny lame.

It crept to his bedroom,
Its victim to maim.
It crept to his pillow,
To make Johnny lame.

It laughed without mercy,
Without fear, without shame.
It laughed at its purpose,
To make Johnny lame.

It touched Johnny's feet,
This fiend without name.
It touched Johnny's legs,
To make Johnny lame.

It crept from the pillow,
In the way it first came.
It crept from the bedroom,
It made Johnny lame.

It stole from the shadow,
Having played a cruel game.
It stole through the meadow,
It made Johnny lame.

It came in the darkness,
Our Johnny to claim.
Fate, cold, black and deadly,
Made poor Johnny lame.

GRADE 7

THE SILENT BEAUTY

The air around me holds a misty silence;
A silence which can be shattered only
By the opening of the wooden door,
But no one enters.

There is a ring of light on the pillow
Which is lying on the floor
Caused by an opening in the ceiling;
An opening which is pitch black
Unless you stand beneath it
Where you can see the daylight shining through.

The smoke from my cigarette
Relaxes into spooky, hazy figures
That create a magnified sketch
Of beauty.

The place is deserted which makes
The smoke from that single cigarette
Glide high into the silent air,
Disturbing not a thing
But creating an illusion
Which brings my imagination to life.

Thinking deep inside me I discover
That if I could I'd stay here forever.
It is unlike the noisy streets that crowd the city,
But more like a quiet, warm climate
That reminds me of a darkened cell
Except that I'm free to go
Whenever I please,
But I think I'll just sit here
Until they come;
If they do.

- Pam Thomas

HUMOUR

THE TEACHERS' SHIP

The ship slowly sailed out of Gibson's Harbour.
It sailed into Deep's blue sea.
The courageous captain Peter's son,
Sailed on and on and on.
The Pajen Nuns were curious passengers,
However, they enjoyed their trip.
For supper they were having Fryd Kurk Ham.
They liked it, but it had a Sauer taste.
Every night the nuns would Reed Uncle Earnie's Stories.
While in the kitchen, the cook Jard Onions.
However, the Weight of the passengers sank the ship,
Into Deep's blue sea.
