A TIME TO REMEMBER
72 - 73

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

As a school year draws to its close, one naturally looks back and reflects on the events and activities that have taken place in the ten months past. In doing so I believe we can all say with certainty that the year has been a memorable one. While every year has its ups and downs, there are many events which have highlighted the year for students.

Extra curricular activities have played an important role at Courtland. In this regard we note the two Championships won by Courtland athletic teams. A number of fine drama presentations were made. Individuals and groups distinguished themselves in music and art. Special efforts such as the two editions of "A Mind of Our Own" are memorable. The graduating class will, no doubt, long remember Wabanaki '73.

As each graduating student embarks on the new venture into Secondary School I wish to pass on best wishes for a rewarding future. Your own hopes, enthusiasm and dedication will determine to what extent your dreams and ambitions will be fulfilled. As you look back it is my hope that you will remember Courtland as a refreshing experience in your educational years.

I would extend a word of appreciation to the Students' Council for the work it has done on behalf of the school. As well, the Yearbook Staff must be recognized for the many hours expended in order to make this yearbook possible. Much dedication and hard work has gone into this project.

To all students and teachers, ours has been a richer life for having had the opportunity to work with you.

STUDENTS' COUNCIL

First Row - John Karschti, Sue Pearcey, A. Bray, Chris Murray, Larry Campbell

Second Row - Sandy Searles, Steve Schacht, Wendy Hieronimus, Leslie Wiegand, Nancy Moncur, Angie Grant, Ricky Haddock, Herb Matis

Third Row - Fitzroy Barrett, Ken Lockstein, Paul Smith, Jim Thoman, Larry Kadel, Richard Watson

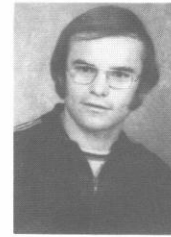

The 1972-3 Students' Council was composed of a very homogeneous group. It seemed that all suggestions were discussed and acted upon with excellent group rapport. The students were responsible in most aspects for their own decisions which have definitely proved to be of an advantage to Courtland Senior Public School. The Students' Council has appreciated the help of staff, administration, and all the other students who were willing to contribute their time and efforts. We were honoured to work with and for you in the past year.

How To Remember Form Seventy-Four

F is for fair
 O is for our class
 R is for reliable
 M is for mighty

S is for sturdy and strong, that's us alright
 E is for eager and enthusiastic
 V is for vain, not us, no way
 E is for early risers every day
 N is for noble, nifty and nuisances too
 T is for troublemakers some we all knew
 Yet the teachers love what we do

F is for fierce and ferocious we gave all we got
 Of course some of us didn't get off to a very good start
 U is for us, defending our form
 R is for remembrance, remember us all.

We get detentions anyway.
We are fairly good in sports,
Most of us get good reports.
Yeh! There goes 75.

We want you to meet
 A class that is neat,
 A class that is great -
 Form Seventy-eight.
 There's our friend John,
 Soon he'll be gone.
 There's our Brenda May,
 Who has lots to say.
 Meet our friend Lloyd,
 His brother is Floyd.
 We have a girl Bev,
 Who'd like a new Chev.
 We have a boy, Mark,
 Who eats at the park.
 Our big strong Neil
 Has muscles like steel.
 There's little Dave Trupp,
 Who's as friendly as a pup.
 And his friend Dave Brighton,
 Who doesn't like fightin'.
 We all like Tom Gligor,
 Who wants to grow bigger.

And there's our Ricky,
 Who tries to be tricky.
 Meet our own Debbie,
 Who is not too heavy.
 We also have Robbie,
 He keeps fish for a hobby.
 Our other friend Ricky,
 He really is tricky.
 Our friendly Dennis,
 Is learning to play tennis.
 We also have Daryl,
 A song he can carol.
 And we have a Brian,
 Who's tame like a lion.
 Then we have another John,
 This one's taller than a leprechaun.
 Our good Barbara Wells,
 Many stories she tells.
 There is our friend Isaak,
 Who always likes music.
 And last we have Liz,
 Who ends all of this.

Fog

Fog is a large white sheet;
You can't touch it,
But it is there.
A mystifying haze,
So close,
Yet so far.
There is a beauty in it.
Quiet and still,
You are alone,
In the peaceful tranquility of nowhere.
The ground is dewed,
The grass is greener than ever.
The cool, crisp haze dampens
your skin.
The sun peeps through,
And the morning breaks to life.

- John Amos, 83

Thunderstorm!

He struck me!
He hit me!
As though I were a slave.

He roared like a ferocious lion!
And boomed like a gigantic monster!
But I was not afraid.

As I looked out my window
He lit up the skies at night
And chopped down from the sky
Like a roaring stream off a mountain.

But he was more harmful
Than a roaring stream
Because his name was THUNDER!

- Angie Grant, 72

In the City at Night

The smoke is pouring from the chimneys,
As the smoke at Kinicinic
swirls about one's face.

The people are choking,
Like dying old women.

The carlights are beaming,
glaring,
Like the blinding midday sun
high above one's head.

Their horns are honking,
Like angry old ganders.

The "drunks" are staggering
down the streets,
Like wobbly young calves trying to take their first steps of life.

The older teenagers loiter on the streets.
Talking on grass and shouting,
whistling at girls.

Hideous yells and hysterical hollers and,
Ear-piercing, shrieking, horror-
stricken screams,

Echo from the black alleys,
Where the street brawls begin.

Blood is drewling down one's face,
As that of tomato juice spilled on one's face.

One pulls a switch-blade and,
A pitiful sigh and a seething moan of life, filled the cold night air.

Sirens were heard, and,
The killers and his partners
just disappeared into the cold night air.

Leaving a ghastly sight behind them,
But no traces of themselves.

Nobody pitied or felt sorry for,
The once suffering, dying old man.

They all said that he was one of the gang and,
Deserved everything he got:

"He deserved to suffer,
And even his death," she said.

But I, and only I know that he was innocent,
As innocent as a newly born kitten.

Oh, that poor man was innocent,
Undeserving and not one of the gang.

For that poor man whom lies
dead and alone,
In that dark, back alley and in the cold night air,
Was none other than my poor beloved father!

So now as you see!
In the city at night,
For your life you've got to fight!

- Colleen Button, 72

The Night Killer

One Saturday morning I got a phone call. The person on the other end said "I'll kill you yet." Then he hung up. My sister phoned in the afternoon and asked if I would babysit for her. I thought about the phone call I got before. I didn't know if I should stay alone. But I ended up babysitting anyway. Then Saturday night came. My sister and her husband left. I was there alone with the three children. I was thinking, "Is someone following me?" I was getting scared. I didn't want the children to get hurt. Then at eight o'clock I did the dishes, fed the baby and changed his diapers. Phooey! I was all done now except for putting the baby to bed. The other two stayed up and watched T. V. I listened to the radio. It said, "A man escaped from prison. He's a cruel killer. Keep all doors locked." And that's what I did. Then around ten o'clock the lights went out. I was so scared! I thought maybe the killer shut the lights off. I went to look for a light. I found a flashlight. I went upstairs to get the baby. I fell and got back up. Then I went downstairs slowly. The other two children were sleeping on the couch. I looked all over for a candle so that there would be more light. I didn't find a candle. So I just sat down with the baby and listened to the radio. It said, "All the power is out." Then he said that a girl was killed by the killer who escaped from prison. I really got scared. All of a sudden I heard a big bang, like something fell. I woke the kids and told them to be quiet and follow me. Then a voice said "Now you all are going to die, so don't try to get away." I ran to the phone, but the phone was out of order. Something flashed. It looked like a knife. We all were shaking. One of the kids screamed. He threw the knife and it hit me. The kids ran out the door, to the neighbours. The neighbours phoned the police. The police surrounded the house. The killer came out and gave himself up. Then the ambulance came and took me to the hospital. I asked, "Who was trying to kill me?" The man said, "They don't know yet, but he'll hang."

- Beverly Hergott, 78

Shoes

I have so many shoes.
All of them in twos.
Black ones, white ones.
Which ones should I choose?

CAMP WABANAKI

When the Courtland kids are up at camp,
Oh when the Courtland kids are up at camp,
Oh Lord I want to be at Wabanaki
When the Courtland kids are up at camp.

Oh when the bugs begin to bite,
Oh when you really feel their sting,
Oh how you wish to be in shelter
When the bugs begin to bite.

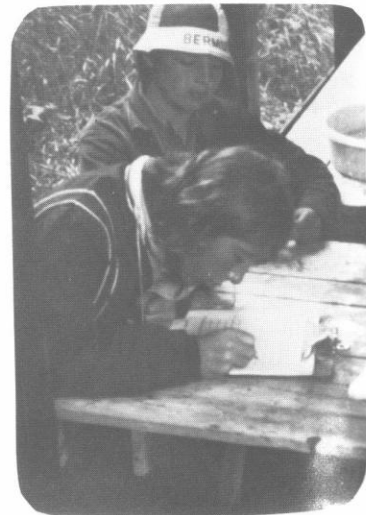

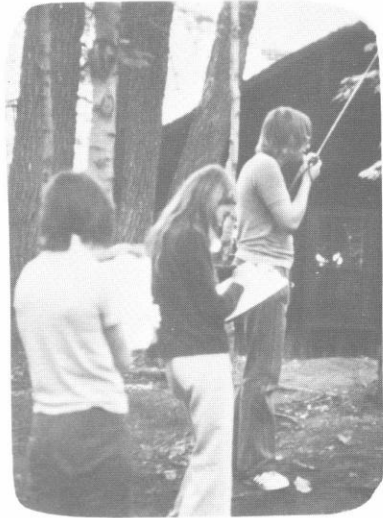

Oh when the kybo beckons you,
You know the bugs will be there too.
They all are mean and sure to sting you,
When the kybo beckons you.

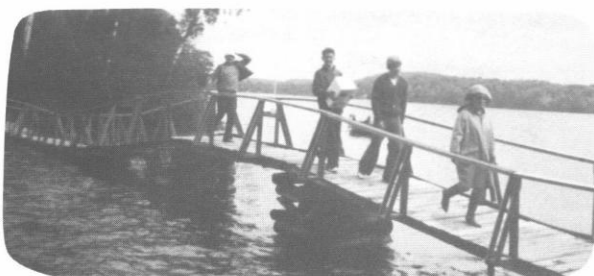

Oh when you're out in your canoe
And your girl friend's out with you,
You forget just how to paddle
And end up tipping your canoe.

And when the bell begins to sound,
And you know it's dinner time,
All the food is divided into portions
And you hope it'll go around.

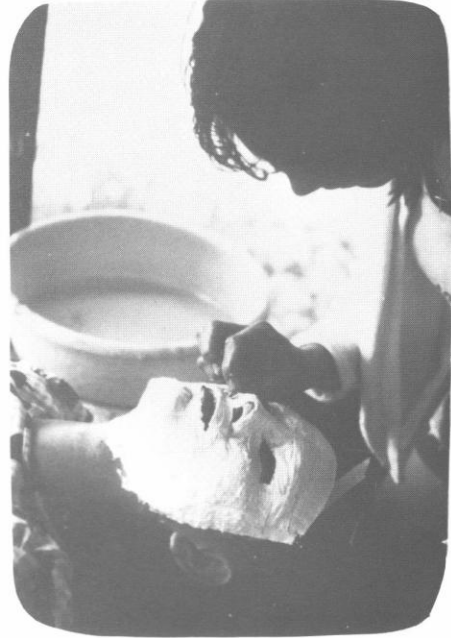

And after campfire, when lights go out
And you're supposed to be asleep,
If you are caught outside your cabin
You'll sure as heck be up the creek.

When the Courtland kids are up at camp,
Oh when the Courtland kids are up at camp,
Oh Lord I want to be at Wabanaki
When the Courtland kids are up at camp.

At long last, after many months of waiting, we present "A Time to Remember - 72-73." And it was a time to remember! Who will ever forget this year at Courtland School? New friends, old friends, our many dances, the confusion of our Off-campus Candy Sale, skating, tobogganning, swimming classes, field trips, the day the buses broke down, field day, Wabanaki, and all the other things which made Courtland such a happy place to work, play and learn.

We, the staff of this yearbook, have tried to bring you a few of the highlights of this time. It has involved a lot of work, but we feel that it was worth it. As you glance through these pages we hope that each of you will find a tear of nostalgia, a chuckle of amusement and some very happy memories. If you do, then our book will have been successful.
