COURTLAND 1991 - 1992

CELEBRATES MULTICULTURALISM

It's hard to write while thinking of leaving! Upon publication of this yearbook, I will be principal of Laurentian Senior Public School. My past six years as principal at Courtland completes nine in all as a "Cougar". The additional three years occurred from 1972-75 when I was vice-principal.

I have enjoyed my relationships at Courtland with students, staff and parents over the years. We only have our students for two years, so the time to expose them to a positive and stimulating learning environment is very short indeed. Together with staff, our students have solved many problems and experienced many successes over the years, and they continue to do so. After all, life today is more challenging than ever, and this is certainly true with young adolescents. They cope with a lot of pressures and most do so very well.

The theme of this edition is Multiculturalism. Students and staff together planned and implemented an excellent Racial Awareness Week in March. Of all of the many activities, the posters with their pictures and sayings stayed with us the longest, in many ways. Two of my favourites were:

"Let's stop racism because - we all have the same blood and features."
and

"Why should we fight when we are all alike?"

Many events bring us close together through a school year (Camp Wabanaki, Track and Field, assemblies). This year the top feature had to be our musical Rock 'n Roll. We weren't able to start until early February, yet by May 12th we had an outstanding major production featuring a double cast and countless staff and students fulfilling all of the many other roles necessary for success. Well done to everyone!

I will miss Courtland and I wish the best to all the staff and students I have known in recent years. Take care!

Sincerely,

R. E. Gage

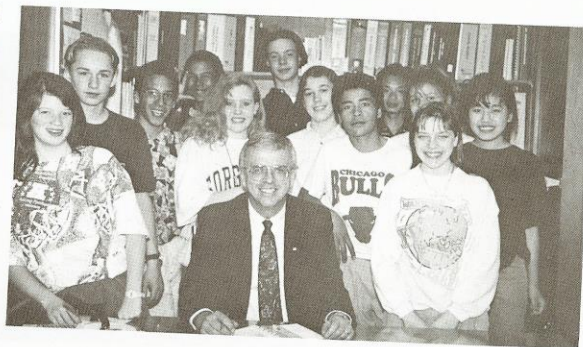

During my two years at Courtland I have had the opportunity to work with a wonderful and very interesting group of young people. They have enriched my life and left me with many fond memories. I have seen them grow and watched as they began developing the maturity necessary to be successful in the future.

The students worked in partnership with a teaching and support staff which is second to none. These committed professionals spend countless hours working to ensure that every child achieves success in some area. I am pleased to have had the opportunity to be a Courtland Staff member.

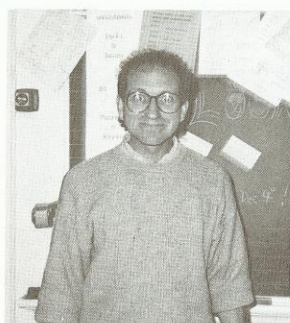

Being at Courtland School means being part of the Courtland family. This family is a large one and extends back in time to 1890 when the school was built. Courtland family members can be found in all walks of life. No matter where they might be found in the world, or what their interests are, they share a common background. This sense of a shared bond is implicit in our motto:

LOYALTY COURTLAND ALWAYS,

G. Metcalf
