

MONARCH MADNESS

Painted Lady
Smaller size, less orange,
more spotting

Monarch

Sizing is relative to the Monarch

Red Admiral
Smaller size, orange
stripe across wings

Northern Crescent
Much smaller

Viceroy
Black crescent on hindwings

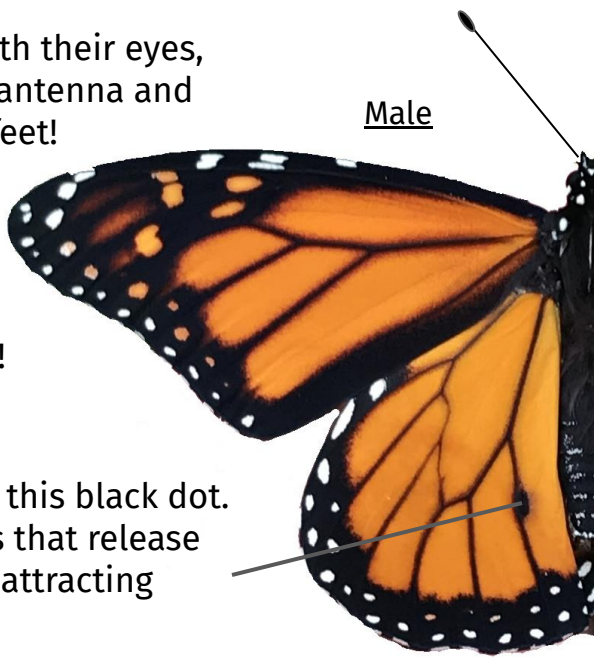

MONARCH MADNESS

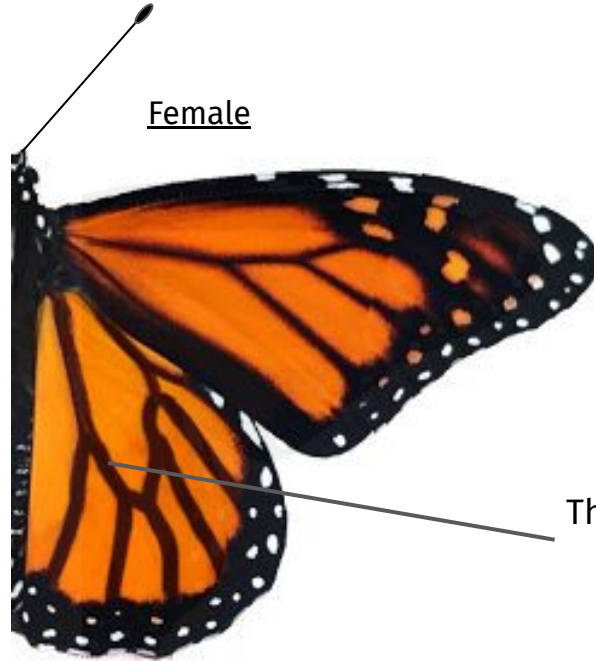

Monarchs see with their eyes, smell with their antenna and taste with their feet!

Females can lay 250 to 1000 eggs!

Only males have this black dot. These are glands that release pheromones for attracting females.

Male

Female

Poisonous!
Cardiac Glycosides ingested as larva from the Milkweed make Monarchs poisonous to eat.

These black veins are thicker in females.

10 Centimeter wingspan

Weigh 0.25 to 0.75 Grams

