Everybody's Talking

Gold-covered: Because its carved panels are edged with gold leaf, an historical cathedral in Porto, Portugal is known as the Gold Church. The building's real name is Igreja de Sao Francisco (Church of Saint Francis). It was built in the 14th century and the gold leaf was added in the 1700s. Over the years the church has been occupied by troops during war, the gold has been stolen and once it was damaged by fire.

Seed stories: The Royal Botanical Gardens in Burlington, ON has acquired a large library of seed catalogues dating back to the mid-1800s. These catalogues provided a plethora of information about different plants and crops in a time when there were many gardeners growing their own produce. Today, these catalogues provide historical information about types of plants that were grown.

Up a tree: People looking for a magical vacation need look no further than TreeHouse Point. Located about 20 miles from Seattle, Washington visitors can book one of several tree houses nestled in the branches of a lush forest of cedar and spruce. To top it off, guests can drift off to sleep while listening to the sound of the rushing water in a nearby river.

Did You Know...

Special cups: Harvey Adams, a British potter, kept the wax on men's mustaches from melting when he invented the mustache cup in the late 1800s. These cups had a little ledge that kept long mustaches from getting dunked in the tea.

Looking up: The eyes and mouth of the stargazer fish are located on top of its head. This enables it to lie under the sand at the sea bottom and spot prey above it. Stargazers are found in tropical and temperate waters.

Swing it: The golf club that American astronaut Alan Shepard swung when on the moon in 1971 can be viewed at the United States Golf Association Museum in Far Hills, New Jersey.

On the Lighter Side

On which side does a chicken have the most feathers? The outside.

Babysitter: a teenager acting like an adult while the adults are out acting like teenagers.

As you grow older, you make a fool of yourself in a more dignified manner.

Remember the good old days when the still, small voice within us used to be called "conscience," instead of "a radio"?

Customer: "My watch only runs every other day."

Clerk: "It was probably made by a part-time employee."
