

RAISING RESILIENT CHILDREN

PREPARING OUR CHILDREN
FOR LIFE IN THE 21ST CENTURY

A PRESENTATION BY DR. MEG POPOVIC, PHD

This presentation FOCUSES ON PREPARING YOUR CHILDREN TO APPROACH LIFE IN THE 21ST CENTURY WITH A RESILIENT MINDSET. Dr. Meg provides parents with a unique perspective on parenting as she has taught 1000s of college university students since her first university lecture in 2003. As she tells parents with a humorous wink, "I get your kids when they leave you." Parents will attain a clear understanding of resiliency, learn how resiliency fits into their current family values and child-parent interactions, and gain practical tools to teach resiliency to their children.

- We will teach you how to prepare your children to deal with the inevitable struggles of life.
- We will address important shifts in the culture of parenting that help - and hinder - our children to becoming accountable, emotionally healthy, and inspired young people.
- Parents will examine common sense, wisdom, and intuition that children need to develop in order to have a chance at thrive in the fast, ever-changing world we live in.
- Tools and information will be provided around realistic ways to encourage, inspire, and install self-efficacy in children.
- During this presentation parents will be encouraged to teach their children to respond to life by choice rather than react to life by chance.
- The focus will be on developing personal resiliency in our children as an essential skill for the 21st century.
