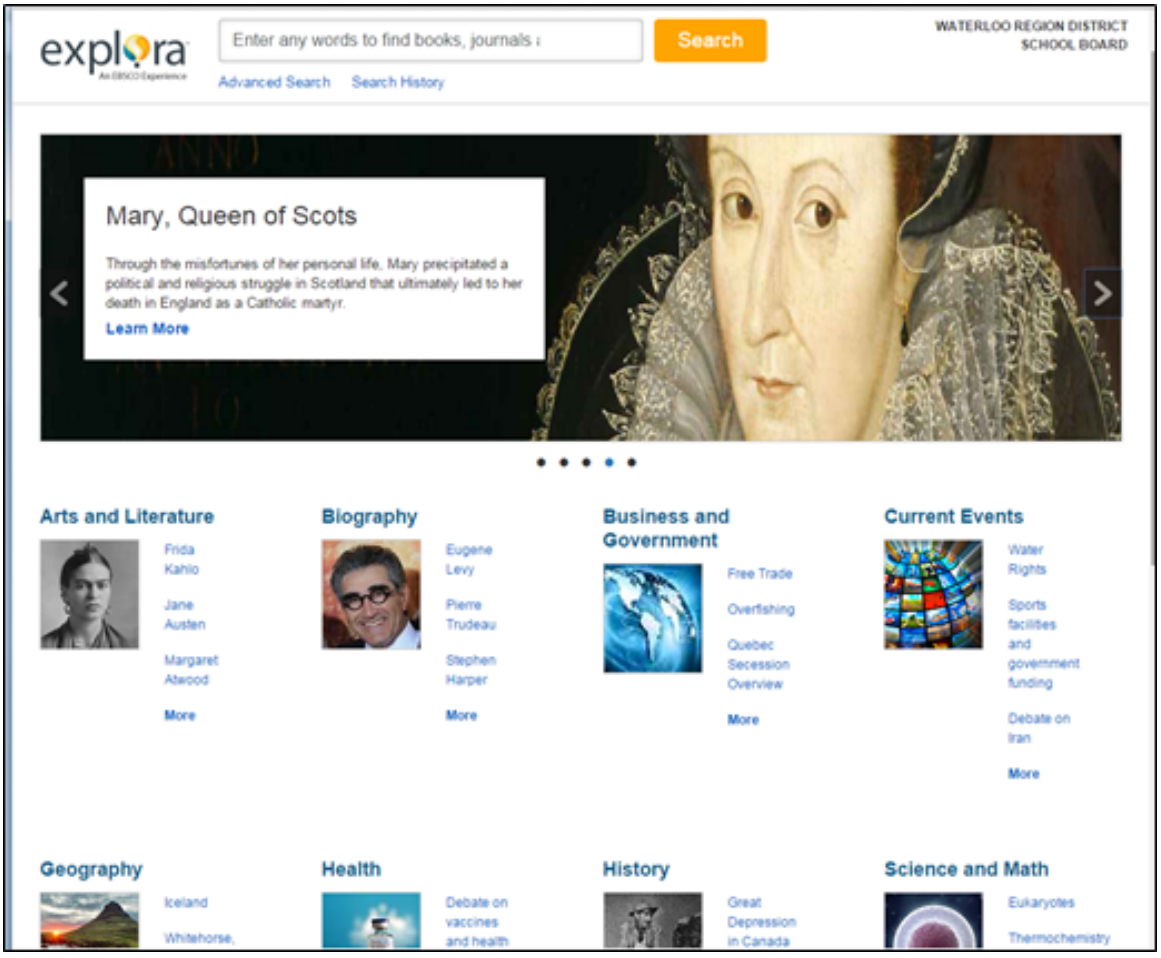
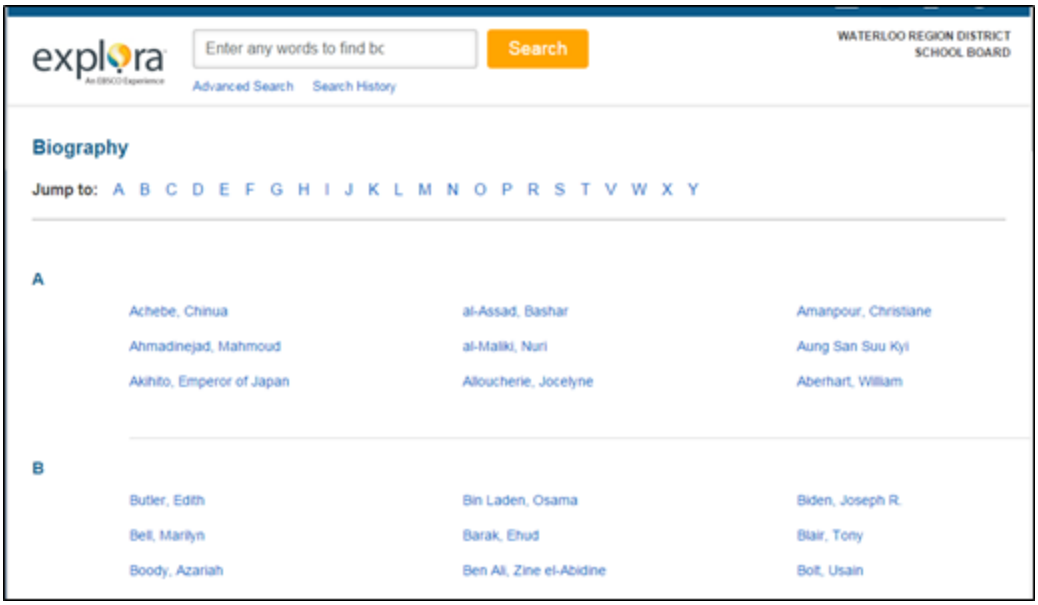
Database Profile: Secondary Search Explora by EBSCO

The homepage (below) offers links to various subject areas in: Arts and Literature, Biography, Business and Government, Current Events, Geography, Health, History and Science and Math. By clicking on "more" in each of these areas, a large alphabetized topic list appears for easy examination.

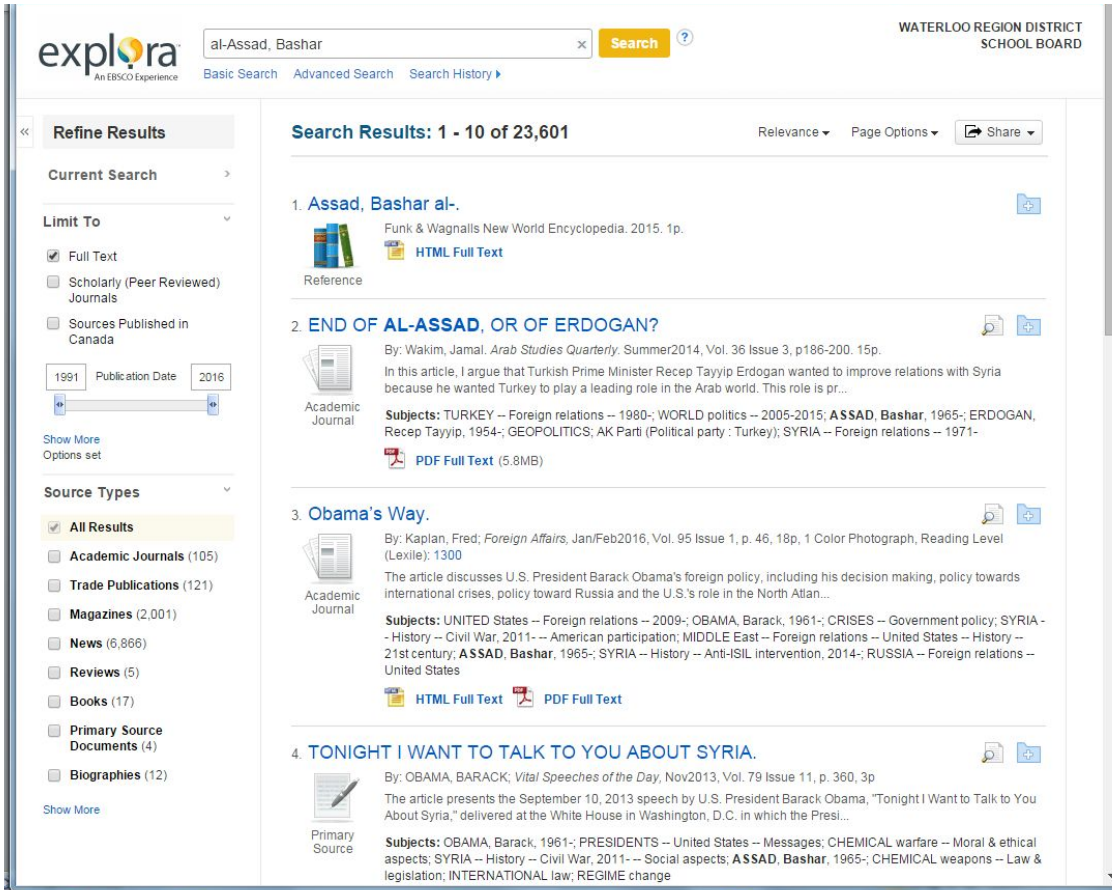


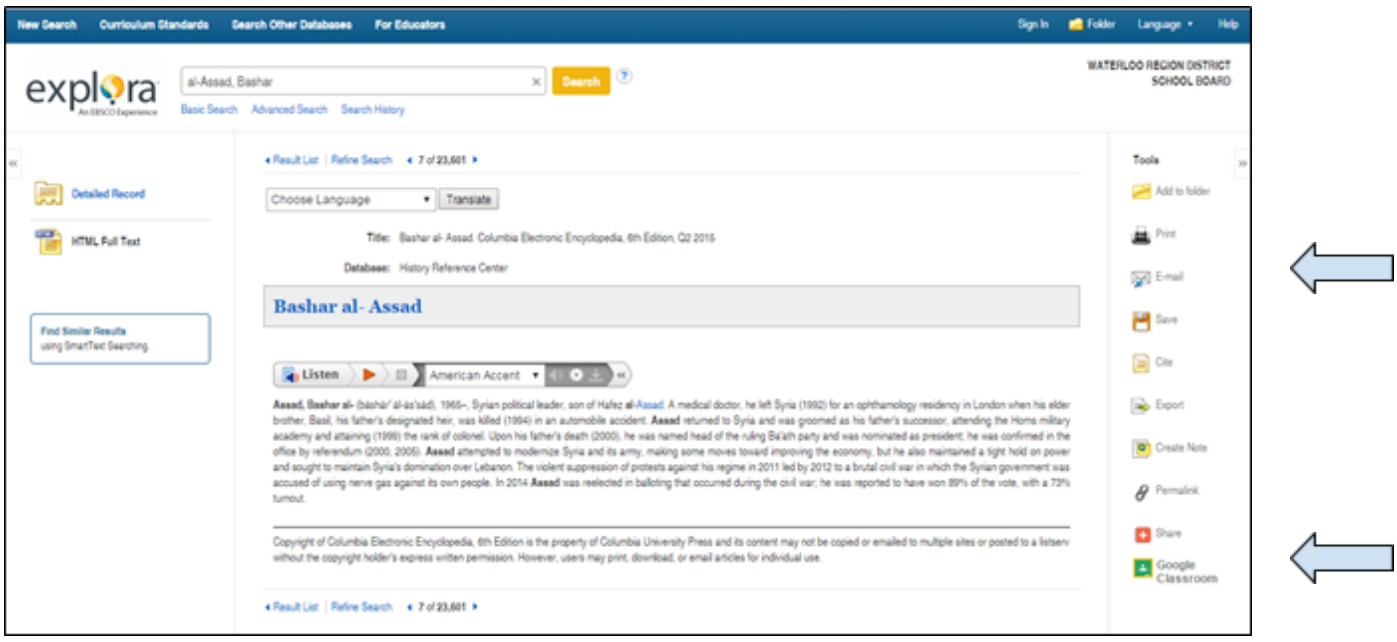


Here is an example of the types of lists that you will see.

If you were researching Bashar al-Assad, you could use the "Refine Results" menu (on the left) to set various parameters to limit the amount of information that appears.

You can select the publication years, source type and whether you want full articles or simply excerpts.





Once you locate an article that you wish to keep, you can download it as a pdf file, you can email it to a school website (waterworks or google apps) or send it to an existing Google Classroom.
